“Discover the importance of being the Bridge for your horse, connected by an emotional rein; learn how to shape the power of your intent to facilitate mind to body fluency. Your intention translated into physical movement defines the art of horsemanship.” ~ Kerry

Clinic Options Include: Why are these clinics important?

A sensory evaluation is an essential component vital for determining how the horse is managing stress, and how it affects their performance capacity and training ability. We can answer the question of does my horse have the psychological capacity to be the athlete and perform to the standards set for them? We will determine what are realistic goals for the horse, and what needs to be integrated into their program and daily lives, to get them there.

Option 1) With up to 4 previously approved demonstration horses you will learn the basics of Sensory Mapping. Discipline specific horse selection, how to pick the right horse. Learn how to identify emotional energy distribution and accumulative stressors. Learn how to determine the basic function of the horse’s Sensory Egg, depth perception and self-awareness. Learn how to Be the Bridge, Not the Block.

Option 2) Two-part clinic day. First session, same as Option 1 but with 2 previously approved demonstration horses. Second session, full sensory evaluation and mapping service provided, complete with enrichment diagram pattern-of-motion design created specifically for your horse. Film footage will be captured of each horse being mapped for detailed analysis, and for the development of the enrichment course design. The full analysis process takes place after the clinic. Sensory Map, Evaluation and the Enrichment Diagram will be emailed upon completion. Special event pricing will be applied. *see Sensory Soundness Mapping in the services area.

Options 1 and 2:

Learn course designs for enrichment diagrams and how to apply and nurture sensory enriching patterns-of-motion to stimulate psychological growth, mitigate stressors and advance trainability and performance capacity.

Note: Owners of Demo-Horses will have the opportunity to opt-in for a full sensory soundness mapping an evaluation and will be accommodated whenever possible. Special discounts may be applied for these horses.

Sensory Soundness Mapping and Evaluation Service; Clinic Only Special:

A full Sensory Soundness Evaluation and Mapping service with clinic special pricing. Minimum of 5 horses per day for clinic discount pricing, with a maximum of 8 book-ins a day. Film footage will be captured of each horse being mapped for detailed analysis, and for the development of the enrichment course design. The full analysis process takes place after the clinic. Sensory Map and Evaluation and the Enrichment Diagram will be emailed upon completion. (*see Sensory Soundness Mapping in the services area for more information)

Event Summary:

Life Through the Senses presentations can be tailored to fit any need, special event, or specific group upon request. Events are commonly two-days. Single day clinics and educational seminars are available.

Two Day Presentation: The first day is the educational seminar on Herd Dynamics and Sensory Soundness. These commonly take place in a classroom type setting. The second day is a recap and review Q-n-A session with a move then into the arena for either Option 1 or Option 2 clinic portion.

At each event Show Special Book-Ins are made available. Anyone that purchases a ticket to attend who wants to book their horse for an evaluation and mapping after the event can do so at a discounted show price. Where there may be a limited number of dates available, we try to accommodate everyone who wants to get their horse on Kerry’s evaluation schedule.

We do not offer “fence-sitter” opportunities at most events; some special exceptions may be accommodated for single day clinics. Please ask ahead of time! Our events are exclusive to and for those who purchase a ticket. Kerry’s work isn’t entertainment focused, there’s “nothing to see” from an abstract view, but everything to see and learn when you're a participant. Events are reserved for the discerning equestrian who wishes to take their understanding of horse psychology and herd dynamics to a whole new level.

Fee structure is on an event-to-event basis. There is no standard fee because there are so many moving parts involved with each different venue and location. We commonly tailor to fit the needs of our prospective participants, resulting in fee structures predicated upon the details of each unique event.

Where we try to accommodate everyone, we all know it isn't always possible. That said, we strive to collaborate to meet your needs. Life is a shared learning experience, and we can only grow together when we work together for a common goal.

Distinguished Event Opportunity:

Combo-Events with Kerry M Thomas and Doctor Shelley Appleton are available! The much-celebrated Applied Sensory Soundness Tour, Australia 2023, presented an historic opportunity for attendees to experience an equestrian event unlike anything presented before. Kerry and Shelley are a powerful one-two punch of innovative horsemanship with both educational and practical value takeaways offered in no other venue. The collaboration between Kerry and Shelley is as insightful as it is telling, from human to horse, the advantage of learning from their experience and innovation, is priceless. If you want to book them, don't delay, email today!
